SECTION A (READING)

Q1. Read the passage and answer the questions that follow:

Artificial Intelligence, or AI, is a type of technology that allows computers and machines to perform tasks that usually require human intelligence. Some examples of these tasks include recognizing faces, understanding language, and playing games like chess.

AI can be found in many places. For instance, when you use a smartphone to ask for directions, AI helps the phone understand your request and find the best route. In video games, AI controls the characters that you play against. Even when you use a search engine to find information on the internet, AI helps you get the most relevant results.

There are different types of AI. One type is called "weak AI," which is designed to do specific tasks, like recognizing your voice or suggesting songs you might like. Another type is "strong AI," which doesn't just do tasks but can think and learn like a human. However, strong AI is still mostly in the research phase.

AI is an exciting technology because it can make our lives easier. However, it's important to use AI responsibly. While it can do many things, it's not perfect, and people need to be careful with how they use it.
